

Learning First Peoples Workshops for Educators

Integrating First Peoples Content and Principles of Learning into Schools and Classrooms

January 18, 2019

Pinnacle Hotel Harbourfront
Vancouver, BC

The First Peoples Principles of Learning are making an impact on our education systems, but we have only begun to understand how they can be used as a framework to build a stronger education systems for all learners.

This workshop is designed to help educators effectively integrate First Peoples content/perspectives and the First Peoples Principles of Learning into classrooms and schools.

Participants will examine how we can create an equitable education system that supports the success and well-being of learners as a part of Reconciliation through education, and will examine and receive a selection of teacher resources from the First Nations Education Steering Committee and the First Nations Schools Association.
